

Impact of Universal Breakfast on Academic Performance

Research from Massachusetts General Hospital, sponsored by Project Bread, found that when children received food as close as possible to morning lessons, their grades improved, their attendance improved, and they behaved better in the classroom.